* Golden Ear is the perfect tool for discovering podcasts. Podcasts, for those who don't know, are Internet radio programs, similar to radio shows, but streamed over the Internet. * Golden Ear has hundreds of shows that you can browse by genre. They are organized by genre and subgenre, giving you more choices to find what you want. * There is no point in listening to a podcast, if you can't connect to it. Golden Ear connects to hundreds of podcast sites and downloads your podcasts for you automatically. * Golden Ear is multi-platform: you can listen to podcasts on your computer, your cell phone, or you can listen to your music with it. * Golden Ear is easy to use. Simply select a podcast and you're listening! * Golden Ear comes with dozens of podcasts of your favorite categories. Plus, there are dozens of categories to add to your collection. * Podcast directories are websites where you can subscribe to and download podcasts that match your interests. In Golden Ear's website directory there are sites for all of your interests and for specific hobbies. * Golden Ear can be operated on computers running Windows XP Home or Windows Vista Home. If you are running Windows Vista Business or Windows XP Professional you may experience issues with downloading the podcasts. is my supervisor. We'll have to see." Two weeks later, the results were in. The supervisor, Caryn the clinical psychologist, was right. "You are my supervisor," she said, handing me a smile. "You will have to be a supervisor one of these days." She handed me a pink slip with a two-paragraph speech on the fly. "You are not able to fill this position," she said, "because no one needs someone like you. You must not apply to any other facility in the area, because you do not have any skills that any other facility would need. No one needs someone to offer a job description with no qualification requirements. And no one needs someone who thinks two years of clinical training and life experience makes them qualified to take on leadership responsibilities. Trust me, no one needs someone like you. You are a disappointment to the women who work here, and the supervisors hate you." I was not prepared for the eight weeks of probation I had earned, and I did not believe in the possibility of promotion. When she handed me the forms to complete, to get my own badge and uniform, I refused to fill them out. "Fill them out," she said
